MT. MCKAY SCENIC LOOKOUT

Visit Mount McKay Scenic Lookout and explore the age old Indian legends and traditions of our area. Towering 1,000 feet over the city, Mount McKay is a must on your list of attractions. At the 500 ft. level the lookout offers a magnificent panorama with a viewing scope for a closer look and new skyline walkway with a great picnic area snack bar. Thunder Mountain was the original name for Mount McKay. Here, traditional native gatherings were held on this sacred ground. Prior to the development of road access to the lookout only traditional native people were allowed access to the grounds, which is considered a nesting area for the Anemki or Thunderbird. A large white cross has been placed on a mountain ledge to commemorate Indian people who have served our country in time of war.

THUNDER BAY ART GALLERY

Christi Belcourt

June 22 - November 25, 2018

UPRISING: THE POWER OF MOTHER EARTH, Christi Belcourt – A Retrospective with Isaac Murdoch, 2017, acrylic on canvas, 122 x 183 cm, On loan from the Wabano Centre for Aboriginal Health, Ottawa, ON Christi Belcourt, What the Sturgeon Told Me, Acrylic on Canvas, 61 x 122 cm, Collection of the Artist.

Since June 22 visitors to Thunder Bay Art Gallery have enjoyed a major mid-career exhibition by popular Métis artist Christi Belcourt. People love Belcourt's large canvases which echo traditional Métis beaded designs. Her sinuous paintings are executed principally in tiny dots made by dipping the end of a stylus, paintbrush or knitting needle into paint. The time and stamina required by this technique speak to this prolific artist's energy and commitment.

In all her work, Belcourt expresses her deep respect for Mother Earth, as well as the traditions and the knowledge of her people.

Belcourt is also known as an environmental activist and advocate for water, land, and the preservation of Indigenous languages. She is the guiding force in the Ontario-based Onaman Collective which shares Indigenous traditional knowledge and language with youth. Through all aspects of her art practice, Belcourt aims to guide us – with urgent passion – to live in balance with nature.

About 35 works from 1993 to the present are included in this must-see exhibition, which runs June 22-November 25, 2018. Organized by Thunder Bay Art Gallery with Carleton University Art Gallery (Ottawa), the exhibition will tour nationally to galleries in Ottawa, Joliette, Regina, and Winnipeg until 2020.

LAKEHEAD TRANSPORTATION MUSEUM SOCIETY

Phase One Mission Accomplished: Alexander Henry is Home & Open Soon to Public

The newly-formed non-profit Lakehead Transportation Museum Society (LTMS) has a dream: to bring to the city built on transportation a transportation museum to showcase its rich transportation history. And bringing home to Thunder Bay the former Canadian Coast Guard icebreaker, the Alexander Henry, was Phase One.

Incorporated with the Ontario Historical Society two years ago, the LTMS board first heard in September 2016 about the potential scrapping or sinking of the Alexander Henry. And they set the goal to save her.

The Henry was built in 1957-58 at the former Port Arthur Shipbuilding Co. Ltd. in Thunder Bay. She entered service on July 1, 1959 as an icebreaker and buoy tender for the Canadian Government's Department of Transport Marine Service and transferred in 1962 to the newly-created Canadian Coast Guard. The Henry is 60.29 metres (197.8 feet) in length with a beam of 13.29 m (43.6 feet), draught 5.46 m (17.9 feet), and has a massive derrick for lifting five-tonne buoys in and out of the water.

In 1984, after 26 years of service, the Henry was de-commissioned by the Canadian Coast Guard and a year later in 1985, became a museum ship at the Marine Museum of the Great Lakes. However, last summer when the museum's property was sold by the Canadian government to a private developer, the museum – including the Henry -- had to move out. Henry was towed to a temporary docking site in Picton, Ontario to await her fate.

At about the same time, LTMS received its charitable status and had been incorporated. With a rallying cry of "Bring Henry Home" strongly supported by the community, LTMS set about to save the Henry. A deal was reached with Kingston's Marine Museum -- if LTMS would pay for the towing costs to Thunder Bay, they could purchase the Henry for a few dollars…..but it had to be all done by the museum's deadline of July 1. Could they really do it?

Saving the Henry became phase one of the LTMS's goal of establishing a transportation museum in Thunder Bay. After months of discussions, negotiations and fundraising for the approximately 1,000-mile tow through the Great Lakes, Henry arrived back home in Thunder Bay on June 27 last year.

After being docked at a private facility until November 23 while lease agreements were worked out, the Henry was towed to her waterfront site on Pier 6 at Marina Park in Thunder Bay. Since then, restoration, cleaning, hooking up electrical power (thanks to IBEW 420 volunteers) and minor repair work has been ongoing, including preparing mini-museum display rooms to showcase Thunder Bay's transportation history.

In early June of this year, after the harbour ice was gone, the Henry was moved ahead on Pier 6 to her permanent moored site. Once the inspections and surveys are complete in mid-June, the Henry will be open to the public as a museum ship and major tourist attraction.

The Henry will be Thunder Bay's first transportation museum for Thunder Bay while working towards the bigger goal. On July 18, there will be an official rededication and re-christening of the Alexander Henry – the first time in Canada for a rededication ceremony for a former Canadian Coast Guard vessel.
