AnneMarie Calonego opened Prime Gelato last July in Thunder Bay's downtown north core. Stores expected to carry Calonego products, which include gelato pops, are Agostino's Deli on the city's south side, which will begin sales immediately. Maltese and The Cheese Encounter will begin sales in the next few weeks. Restaurants offering it on their menu will include Uptown Cut, the Sovereign Room and The Foundry. The gelato is as local as it gets. The milk and cream come from the Slate River Valley, and the eggs, honey, maple syrup, coffee, beer, wild blueberries, carrots and herbs are also locally produced.

Our handcrafted gelato is now available at the General Store at the Thunder Bay Country Market.

Back in History

PORT ARTHUR TOWN HALL

Most city residents know the location of Thunder Bay's current City Hall but how many are familiar with the location of the old Port Arthur Town Hall? It seems that the story behind the old town hall's history has somewhat faded. In 1880, the Port Arthur Masons constructed a building that would serve as a meeting place for the Port Arthur Town Council. Its usage, however, was not isolated to just city business. The building would also serve as a centre of entertainment for the quickly growing town. Its location in the city, at the corner of Court and Red River Road, meant that it provided easy access to residents who wanted to enjoy various local entertainers at what became known as the Opera House. Located in the hall was a small wooden stage that was used for various plays and a number of wooden chairs that one historian has called, 'very sickly red'. The building, like almost all others of that period, was quite draughty and the wood-burning stove occasionally filled the main room with so much smoke that audiences were often reduced to tears. On November 23rd, 1907, the town hall caught fire and within a short time, the entire building burned to the ground. No one was injured during the blaze but the fire had destroyed a number of artifacts. The Port Arthur Town Council never rebuilt the hall. Instead, meetings were held in whatever space was available. It wasn't until the amalgamation of the two cities that the town hall would find a permanent building to call home.

MT. MCKAY SCENIC LOOKOUT

Visit Mount McKay Scenic Lookout and explore the age old Indian legends and traditions of our area. Towering 1,000 feet over the city, Mount McKay is a must on your list of attractions. At the 500 ft. level the lookout offers a magnificent panorama with a viewing scope for a closer look and new skyline walkway with a great picnic area snack bar. Thunder Mountain was the original name for Mount McKay. Here, traditional native gatherings were held on this sacred ground. Prior to the development of road access to the lookout only traditional native people were allowed access to the grounds, which is considered a nesting area for the Anemki or Thunderbird. A large white cross has been placed on a mountain ledge to commemorate Indian people who have served our country in time of war.
